We beat the Race Act!

Michael Burroughs and Robert Young. Selling Nationalism Today at the book stall in Brick Lane, East London.

ON WEDNESDAY 1st February Ian Newport, Michael Burroughs and Robert Young were, by unanimous decision of the jury, acquitted of Race Act charges.

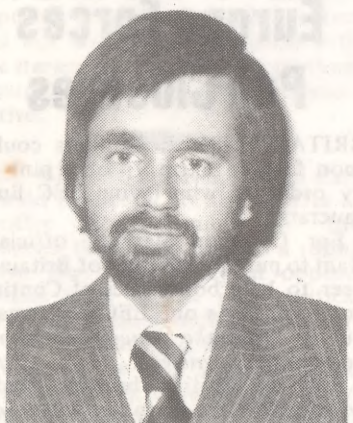

They had been accused of "publishing" material likely to incite racial hatred in that Ian Newport had produced a book "We are NF" while Michael Burroughs and Robert Young were accused of selling it to the public from a stall in Brick Lane market, East London.

Despite the rantings of the prosecution barrister, apparently determined to prove that the defendants were a cross between Stalin and Genghis Khan, he was completely unable to prove that the book had ever been meant to be sold to the public. One prosecution witness claimed to be an innocent passer-by who was shocked by the book: his evidence fell apart when he admitted that he was a political activist who was clearly bent on making a name for himself out of the prosecution.

Consequently Ian Newport, Michael Burroughs and Robert Young, who had all faced the possibility of prison sentences if found guilty, all walked free from the Court. On their way out Robert Young shook hands with a blustering and astonished Chief Inspector Donald Ed-wardson of Scotland Yard's notorious Community Relations Squad. Equally angry were two Jewish gnomes who had been lurking in the public gallery and who fled to the telephone booths to inform their masters at the Board of Deputies of British Jews of the terrifying news.

Our three brave members have won a great victory and have effectively driven a steamroller right through the Race Relations Act. They risked their livelihoods and their freedom and they deserve our warmest thanks.

Labour livid in Liverpool

LABOUR COUNCILLORS in Liverpool are livid over complaints made by black representatives of the City's Race Relations Committee that police officers have been seen "fraternising, laughing and joking with National Front newspaper sellers on Liverpool's Church Street.

Councillor Derek Hatton said "If we had the powers we would stop this selling of National Front papers, but we can't because its not a proscribed organisation. Its up to the sheer weight of the Labour movement to stop these sales."

LEGISLATION

The council is at present examining legislation concerning the use of public highways to see if the National Front members can be stopped from selling the papers from below a massive Union Jack raised by other supporters.

1984 - Sheffield....

WE STOP THE IRA!

THE NATIONAL FRONT has stopped the murderers of the IRA from marching on the streets of mainland Britain! This great success for the NF came when the annual 'Bloody Sunday' march by Sinn Fein was banned when the Front announced that we would hold a counter-march in the same town.

At first, Sinn Fein, the so-called political wing of the IRA, had planned to hold their march through the streets of Sheffield on January 29th. This march had angered the local people of Sheffield who did not want IRA murderers marching through their city. The National Front got the backing of many local people when we announced that we would hold an anti-IRA march through Sheffield on the same day if the IRA were allowed to march.

The local police had been prepared to let the IRA march but they changed their minds when they heard about the NF's plan to march. They immediately got all marches in Sheffield banned!

Following the ban in Sheffield, the IRA decided to switch their march to Bradford. But the National Front heard about their plans and announced that we would march as well. Again the police panicked and they banned all marches in Bradford.

FURIOUS

The IRA were really furious when they learned that the NF had succeeded in getting their march banned for the second time. They were forced to cancel all their plans to march.

This was the first year since 'Bloody Sunday' took place in 1971 that the IRA had been prevented from marching. They've held a commemorative march every year since then and the National Front has always turned out to oppose them. In 1978, thirty-nine members of the NF were arrested when they tried to stop the IRA from marching in London. In other years the NF has held marches against the IRA in other towns such as Cardiff, Birmingham, and Leeds. But this was the first time that the National Front has actually stopped the IRA from being able to hold any march at all.

Unlike the Tory, Labour and Liberal parties, the National Front doesn't believe in talking about the murdering bastards of the IRA. The NF has always taken direct action against the IRA in order to avenge the murder of hundreds of women, children and British soldiers in Northern Ireland. We will always oppose the cowardly murderers of the IRA whenever they show their faces. But this time our direct action got direct results. This time we actually stopped the IRA from marching.

while in Birmingham....

FOUR days before the National Front succeeded in getting the IRA's march in Sheffield and Bradford banned, NF members were protesting outside a pro-IRA meeting in Birmingham.

About thirty members of the NF's Birmingham Branch turned up outside Digbeth Civic Hall in the city centre to oppose a meeting by the Troops Out Movement.

Originally, the meeting was supposed to be open to the public, but when the organisers of the meeting spotted some NF members in the audience they told the police to remove all members of the public so that they could hold their pro-IRA meeting in private.

The police told the NF members and other members of the public to leave and the Troops Out Movement secretly switched their meeting to another room. The National Front members then held a peaceful demonstration outside the hall which gained a lot of publicity in the local press.

BANNED

Bob Jones, a member of the NF National Directorate, told the Birmingham Post that the NF were protesting at council properties being let out to the IRA when the local council had banned the National Front from holding meetings in the same halls.

Norman Tompkinson, the NF's West Midlands Regional Organiser, told the same paper that he would be lodging a complaint with the city council.

PREPARED

It is disgusting that Birmingham city council is prepared to let their halls to anti-British murderers when they are not prepared to let those same halls to patriotic groups like the National Front. But the NF will not be deterred. While Birmingham city council continue to support IRA murderers, the National Front in Birmingham will continue to oppose these butchers whenever they set foot in the West Midlands!

Time to speak out

POPIES IS a play for schools performed by something called "Gay Sweatshop" which believe it or not receives an Arts Council grant.

It's bad enough that such rubbish as a 'homosexual drama' should be allowed to influence impressionable young minds let alone waste valuable time that should be given over to giving pupils a proper education, but that's not all. A group called 'Gay CND' is distributing leaflets with the programmes for the play asking youngsters to attend a meeting, outside school, to explore peace and sexuality by games, fantasies, and talks" with one of their organisers openly admitting that physical contact will take place during the games.

NEGLIGENCE

As well as being of concern to parents everywhere the activities of these people conjures up images of homosexual paedophiles and should be of concern to the police. These people are sick and should have medical treatment, the authorities are guilty of negligence in allowing such people into our schools and those responsible should resign, and finally the Government should cut its allocation of money to the Arts Council to discourage it from financing such organisations.

NF News seeks to persuade its readers to feel angry about the evils of multi-racialism and to direct their anger solely at the corrupt politicians who created a racial problem in Britain, and not to the immigrant people in general. "Racialism is NOT unlawful - only "racial hatred".

Selling a city's identity

ULSTER'S SECOND city, Londonderry, famous for the Siege of 1689 in which Loyalists heroically held it against the rebel hordes of the French puppet James II, is henceforth to be called "Derry", officially as well as by the IRA and their friends. This is the latest grovel to Republicans by weak and incompetent Secretary of State James Prior, who was exiled to Ulster as punishment for arguing with Maggie in Cabinet meetings.

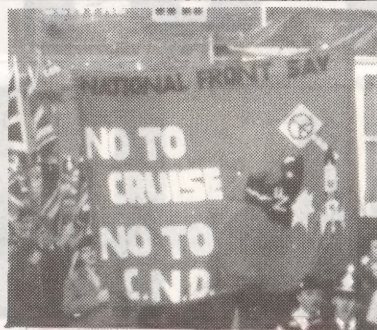

CONSECRATED

Yet as long as there has been a town there the place has been called Londonderry. "Derry" comes from the Gaelic word for oak trees, which were the only inhabitants of the site before the Corporation of the City of London founded the city in 1613. For three centuries, the name of Londonderry has been sacred to the Britons of Ulster, consecrated in the blood of thousands who died in its defence, until a cowardly fool sold the city's identity to curry favour with traitors and murderers.

Yet again, as in 1689, Loyalists must organise to defend the honour of Ulster's "Maiden City". And we in the National Front will be in the vanguard of that fight!

Price of Democracy

AN OFFICIAL of National Front Central London Group recently wrote to the Director of Recreation of the City of Westminster seeking to book a hall for a private Group meeting. The Director replied that he would be most happy to hire halls to the National Front... Unfortunately, however, it would first be necessary to place "a £1,000 deposit in cash with the City Treasurer" and to "provide evidence of a valid insurance policy taken out by you to provide cover of £500,000". Isn't it great to live in a democratic country?

OUR CAMPAIGN CONTINUES...

BRUCE KENT, the General Secretary of C.N.D., had a nasty shock when he arrived as guest speaker at a C.N.D. meeting in Maidstone on Monday 20th February. Outside the library was a picket of over 40 National Front members armed with placards and Union Jack flags.

As people arrived for the meeting they were greeted with the NF message: "No to Cruise - No to C.N.D." blasted at them through a loud hailer. Leaflets were also distributed.

Bruce Kent. Smuggled out a back door.

While the meeting took place inside the library, a steady barrage of chanting was kept up outside the building. By remaining outside the meeting the NF forced Bruce Kent to be smuggled out by a back exit surrounded by about 20 police officers.

As C.N.D. supporters, covered in death-wish badges, were leaving the meeting a smoke bomb went off in the entrance causing large clouds of acrid red smoke to billow into the hall entrance causing acute discomfort to the C.N.D. supporters.

As a result of this mobilisation of Kent members substantial coverage was won both in local newspapers and on Radio Kent.

Killing Britain's Car Industry

NORMAN TEBBIT smiles ecstatically as he signs away the whole future of Britain's car industry. Not only is he condemning thousands to the dole queues he is killing the long term existence of a truly British motor industry.

The first phase of the Japanese invasion is to produce annually 24,000 Japanese cars from predominantly Japanese components with British components likely to make up only 10 - 15% of the total.

Phase Two involves a massive expansion to 100,000 cars per year. The official announcement claims that at this stage up to 80% of the components will be "British or European". However the transition from Phase One to Phase Two is inevitably dependent on the agreement of the Japanese trade unions who have held up the project for over two years and who have a vested interest in minimising the British content of the cars produced.

If the second phase goes ahead the factory will employ 2,700 people, yet it will put other car factories at risk. The Talbot car plant near Coventry currently employs 6000 workers who would be at serious risk if 100,000 Japanese cars are being unleashed on the British market.

DEATH BLOW

But what in many ways is the most serious aspect is the potential death blow which will be dealt to the long term prospects of the British car industry. The research and development for Japanese cars will be carried out in Japan and the British factory will be relegated to a simple assembly plant whose fortune will be dependent on the whim of Japanese Directors and Japanese unions.

Not content with this relegation

Norman Tebbit is determined to ensure the destruction of Britain's only major motor manufacturer. The highly profitable side of British Leyland is to be sold off, possibly to the American giant General Motors Corporation, as is the equally profitable component side - Unipart.

What would be left would not be capable of surviving as an independent motor manufacturer and possibly in anticipation of this BL is merging much of its development work with Honda.

VAUXHALL

Vauxhall, owned by General Motors of America, already sells models without a British engine in a single car, while their latest model, the Nova, is built entirely in Spain.

These developments are removing all control over the level of investment, the siting of factories and the employment of workers away from Britain into the hands of Japanese, American and French companies who have no responsibility to the people of Britain and who are outside the control of the British Government.

Incredibly on hearing of this latest Nissan invasion the giant Transport and General Workers Union welcomed the announcement and said it wanted to meet Nissan. Only Ken Gill of the Amalgamated Union of Engineering Workers condemned the deal as a "body blow to BL, which is likely to destroy more jobs than it creates".

The unholy alliance of Norman Tebbit and the TGWU is creating a monster over which there is no British control - a monster which will leave Britain as an industrial wasteland begging for the scraps thrown to us by the Japanese and the Americans.

Because of Colour

THE MANUAL workers' union NUPE have accused Labour-controlled Hackney Council of turning away white applicants for jobs so that they can employ more blacks.

Mr. John Chalkley, the Hackney branch secretary of NUPE said, "Feelings have been running very high. We first raised this with the council some months ago, but we are still getting complaints that people are getting jobs because they have a black face."

"Our view on this is quite clear. We believe that jobs should be awarded on merit, irrespective of colour. Equal opportunities must mean what it says."

UNASHAMED

Hackney Council is one of an increasing number of councils that are practising unashamed 'positive discrimination' which is putting blacks before whites in jobs, housing, welfare and education. They implement this policy by advertising jobs in ethnic minority papers and lowering qualifications when blacks apply for specific posts.

COMMON MARKET MADNESS

British Growers Threatened

NEW COMMON market regulations agreed between the EEC and the Dutch government have forced Britain to lift the ban on the imports of Dutch Chrysanthemums.

British growers are now forced to compete for the home market with Dutch imports, not only is their livelihood threatened by this move but also it is feared that Dutch imports could re-introduce the flower disease 'white rust' into the country.

Chairman of the National Farmers' Union flower committee, Mr. Ian Cummings said, "Obviously we are very concerned".

Price Proposals Hit Our Farmers

FARM INCOMES in Britain could plummet this year by more than 25 per-cent as a direct result of the Common Market farm price proposals.

Commenting on the implications of the EEC proposals, the National Farmers' Union have said: "In real (inflation adjusted) terms, our incomes would then be below the depressed 1930 level, the worst post-war year for agriculture."

EEC Dictate Our Fishing Quotas

Victims of the Common Market -

THE TORIES have once again sold out the interests of Britain's fishing industry to the EEC.

For at a recent EEC meeting concerning 1984 fishing quotas, the government failed to press for any extension of Britain's own exclusive fishing grounds - areas where only British trawlers could fish.

And to add insult to injury, the Tories have agreed that Britain's fishermen are only allowed a small quota of the North Sea Cod catch.

Europe Forces Pub Closures

BRITAIN'S BEER drinkers could soon face an extra 7p on a pint - by order of wine-loving EEC Bureaucrats.

For Common Market officials want to put up the prices of Britain's beer to help boost sales of Continental wine. As one EEC spokesman put it: "to make wine cheaper and beer more expensive".

But the British brewing trade believes that the price rise will force the closure of hundreds of pubs and clubs throughout the UK.

Market Wants £2 billion Back

THE EEC Commission recently confirmed that it has begun two actions against Britain in the European Court of Justice - claiming that the entire subsidy scheme operated by the English and Welsh Milk Marketing Board over the past few years is illegal.

If upheld, it would mean that Britain could be faced with a demand for the return of subsidies amounting to as much as £2 billion.

NF News DIARY

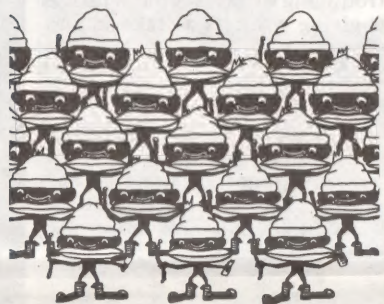

BRITAIN'S FASTEST growing industry, that of Race Relations, has launched yet another post to cope with its increased pandering to the ethnic minorities.

The Royal Borough of Kensington and Chelsea is advertising for an "Ethnic Enabler" . . . an important and challenging job designed to help ethnic minorities in the Borough" . . . and the salary for this 'challenging' job? A mere £430.43 a week.

WHEN THE local Labour Council overruled the school headmaster and allowed Asians to go to school in saris and baggy trousers instead of the uniform compulsory for everyone else, White school kids at Derby School hit back! 200 pupils turned up the next day wearing jeans, pointing out that if Asians could break the school rules and get away with it so could they. But of course the Labour Reds had them sent home to change into school uniform.

Once again it appears that if you're black you have one set of rules and if you're white another!

RACE INVADERS!

THE GREATER London Council has produced an anti-racist space-fantasy video game as part of its "Anti-Racist Year".

At a cost of £20,000 to the rate-payers, the game asks questions such as "Do you think blacks are in the best housing?". If the player punches out the answer "yes", his spaceship will disintegrate on the screen, the game will sound a large raspberry and the journey to the stars will be over.

The video game is to be distributed throughout schools, town halls and community centres.

THE RUNNYMEDE Trust believes that the main political parties were mistaken in attempting to attract a "black vote" at the last General Election.

Its analysis revealed that class identification led most blacks to vote for the Labour Party although aspiring middle class black voters did not want to be identified with the stereotyped image of their ethnic group, and as such, voted Conservative.

THE GLC are insisting that all staff should now refer to black coffee as "coffee without milk" on the grounds that, according to a ruling from the council's equal opportunities unit, "black is a political term". It is still permitted, however, to call the other sort white!

Wags on the GLC staff, who find the new ruling exceedingly funny, are now referring to everything that the rest of the world knows as black, such raincoats, umbrellas and telephones as "without milk".

WHAT THEY DON'T SAY...

ON JANUARY 4th the NF diarist wrote to the Education Secretary, Sir Keith Joseph, asking for assurances that his well-publicised remarks concerning truancy also applied to the 'legalised truancy' of this country's Asian immigrants (see NF News No. 53).

At the time of going to press, no acknowledgement of receipt of letter or reply have been received from the Education Secretary.

HOUSING: THE HIGH-RISE HELL

HOUSING WAS the great political trump-card of the Sixties. Both Tory and Labour promised thousands of new homes. But the only way to keep their promises was by 'industrial systems building' — technical jargon for concrete card houses: slabs built in factories, taken to a site, and bolted/bonded into tower blocks or barrack-like housing estates.

Nationally, Labour started the campaign. The Tories were only too willing to continue it. Whitehall steadily pressured local authorities into 'going industrial'.

PROFIT

If they built fast, and straight up, they got the highest subsidies. Many a big, corrupt, building firm boss was lured into the prospect of making a fast profit. The feelings of those who were to be herded into tower blocks were never considered.

High rise flats, giant housing estates, walkways and the like are inhuman and soul-destroying. Even the politicians now admit that the great mass-housing 'experiment' of the '60's was a mistake.

Local councils now face horrifying bills:

Leeds must find nearly £1 million a year for demolition and compensation costs at a single factory-built site, Hunslet Grange. It will put 22p a week on every council rent in the city, for the next 40 years.

London's Brent Council has a £33 million bill to renovate or knock down 7,000 systems-built homes.

Hillingdon, in North-West London, has a £38 million housing bill on its hands. Manchester will have to fork-out £750,000 a year for the next half-century.

It has been estimated that about 100,000 system-built homes are not fit to live in. It will cost at least £1 billion to repair them.

FAILURE

Experts cite many reasons for the high-failure rate of industrial systems building. Systems building allowed the high use of unskilled or semi-skilled workers which opened the way to poor craftsmanship — inadequate sealing of panels, faulty joints, skimmed securing of walls, etc, etc.

Even the penetrating force of the British weather has been blamed.

But the opinions of the 'experts' and the vote-catching wranglings of the politician's don't help tenants like Linda Price, 30, and her ten year-old son Michael, who live in a three storey system-built block at Drayton, in Middlesex.

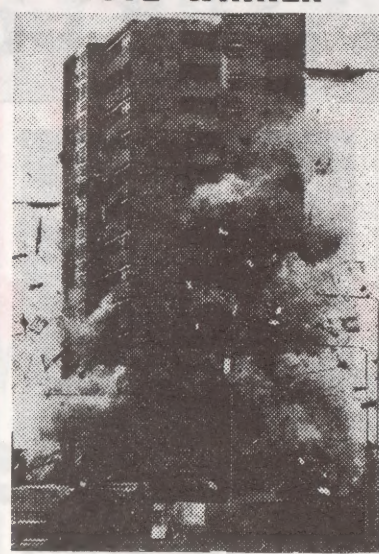

Rainwater floods the floor in bad weather. Windows don't fit, and holes in the floor mean that only a thin layer of cement and plastic separates them from the flat below.

"Now the walls are moving" she says. "Get a high wind and you can hear them at night".

FAULTS

Faults have appeared in system-built homes after less than a year —

END OF A VOTE-WINNER

Housing the political trump-card of the sixties. Built fast and straight up . . . but they come down even quicker!

some new tenants report dampness within the first few weeks — and a survey of one Newcastle estate disclosed complaints of dampness or condensation in 84 per-cent of homes.

The seeds of the present high-rise housing crisis were self-delusion and a stubborn refusal to face the consequences of a 'miracle cure' that was a vote-winner in the bargain.

'WONDERFUL'

Planners, 'experts' and politicians always turned aside qualms about system-built blocks by saying they were the homes of the future; clean, snug, modern, often with 'wonderful' views.

Charles Pannell, Labour's Public Building and Works Minister in 1966, hailed high-rise flats as "... places for people moving from the slums."

But whilst the politicians try to escape the blame, and the councils try to repair the un-repairable, it is the ordinary British people — as ever — who are paying the human price.

Mass high-rise housing was a short-sighted policy to be palmed off on the White Working Class of Britain. The 'stack-a-prole' experiment has failed. Now the chickens have come home to roost.

MONEY MAKES THE KNIGHTHOODS GO AROUND!

ONCE A KNIGHTHOOD or a title of nobility was an honour earned by valour in battle or performing some other heroic deed on behalf of our country. Today, it seems from the latest New Year's Honours List, such honours are easier won: you just give generous quantities of cash to the political party in power!

Of the eight plutocrats knighted at the New Year, no less than five were directors of companies which have donated generously to Tory Party funds. Nor is this anything new.

14 out of the 18 companies which have given over £90,000 to Tory funds since the party came to power in 1979 have had one or more of their directors thus "honoured" by the Thatcher Government. GEC gave £50,000 in 1980, and the same year got a life peerage from Thatcher for their Chairman, Arnold Weinstock, and a knighthood for another top executive. Property, media and shipping tycoon Victor Matthews' Trafalgar House gave £40,000 the year before "Lord Wheelks" got his life peerage, and £40,000 the year after. Top Zionist Marcus Sieff was made a baron the same year his Marks and Spencer chain store combine handed over £20,000 to Thatcher, out of £90,500 from 1980 to 1983. On average, a company director has been twice as likely to get an "honour" if his firm coughs up when the Tory hat is passed round.

And in all, the eight Honours Lists since 1979 have accounted for a cool £2½ million in cash to Tory funds.

CAN'T TALK

But Labour can't talk! Under their Prime Minister, Harold Wilson, Honours Lists were drawn from the cronies of Wilson and his close friend and "personal secretary", the repulsive Marcia Williams, who netted herself a life peerage into the bargain. Thus did the "Party of the Workers" pack the Lords with the most disgusting collection of plutocratic millionaire shysters, financial sharks and plain criminals seen outside Wormwood Scrubs. Some, such as Wilson's friend and raincoat supplier Lord Kagan, ended up inside that establishment. That noble lord was "put away" for massive tax fraud after earlier scurrying off to Israel one step ahead of the "Old Bill".

Harold Wilson's friend Lord Kagan (and family). He ended up in prison.

And last time they got their hands on the chance to write Honours Lists, the Liberals proved the worst of the lot. Under Lloyd George, knighthoods and peerages were openly for sale to the highest bidder!

Such dragging of an ancient ideal of nobility, knighthood and honour down to the sordid haggling of the marketplace and the conniving of the political gutter is typical of the Old Parties. Only a radical new force can sweep away the corruption and decadence which pollutes the corridors of power. That force is the National Front.

What We Think

- * THE National Front believes that all Britons should own their own homes. To this end we will encourage as much private home-ownership as possible.
- * THE NF will de-populate Britain's overcrowded cities and encourage people back to the land and establish rural communities.
- * IN THE cities, the National Front will reverse the trend away from building office and commercial developments. Inner city land will be used for local housing.
- * THE National Front will strictly regulate the workings of the Building Societies to ensure a fairer distribution of houses and land.
- * HOUSE building and renovation will be vigorously encouraged.
- * THE NF will embark on a massive slum-clearance programme, using the thousands of unemployed construction workers. The NF will grant aid to construction firms and small building companies.
- * THE National Front will boot-out absentee landlords who exploit their tenants. The NF will forbid them from owning property or land ever again.

It's all in our manifesto!

HOUSING is just one of the major issues covered by perhaps the most radical document published by the National Front. Let Britain Live! (the NF's 1983 Election Manifesto) is a must for all Patriots. Other issues covered include: Race and Immigration, The Economy, Defence and Foreign Affairs.

TAX the Banks NOT the People

MRS. THATCHER came to power in 1979 on a manifesto promising tax cuts. In her first year, according to the Inland Revenue's annual survey of personal income, the percentage of total tax paid by the top 1 per-cent of the population dropped to 10.4 per-cent from 11.2 per-cent in 1978-9. The share of the bottom 25 per-cent went up from 4.7 to 4.9 per-cent. Put simply, Maggie raised taxes for the poor in order to cut the taxes of the rich.

And in 1982 the overall tax burden increased more sharply in Britain than in any leading industrialised country according to figures released by the Central Statistical Office. The figures show that total tax revenues as a percentage of the whole economy increased by 2.6 per-cent to 39.7 per-cent in the U.K.

BUDGET

It is morally wrong to break election promises and it is morally wrong to overtax those who can ill afford it. If Thatcher needs more money she must tax the rich and tax the banks. In 1981 Sir Geoffrey Howe took £400 million from the banks as a one-off levy. In the March 13 budget an annual levy on bank profits must be introduced. Banks must be prevented from passing on this tax to their customers.

For years the banks have been allowed to get away with paying very little tax. In 1982, the big four clearing banks paid only around £210 million in UK tax on pre-tax profits of close to £1600 million — a tax rate of 13% — less than that which we pay as VAT! Of this small amount nearly half was that paid on dividends, effectively income tax from shareholders.

NF University Campaign

BIRMINGHAM NATIONAL Front have launched what they call the "Birmingham Student Project" which is a recruitment campaign aimed at Birmingham University.

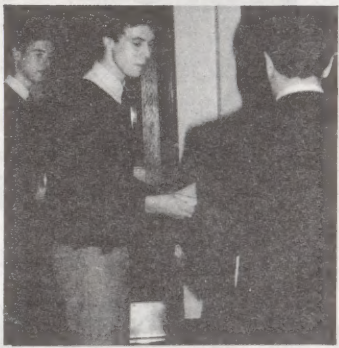

Estimated to inform up to 1,000 students what National Front policies are, the project is not only the distribution of NF literature but the monitoring of the response of those students lobbied.

Using the pro-Palestine supplements, together with NF policy leaflets and an introductory letter from the Birmingham Branch, a specific number of student residences were leafleted. One week later those students who had received the 'project pack' were canvassed for their opinion.

INTEREST

Dave Gardner of the students committee reports.

"Out of the students contacted the majority gave the impression of having little interest in politics. Nevertheless, with only a handful of exceptions, students said that they had read the literature and some expressed interest in NF policies".

Birmingham Student Project. Making available National Front literature at Birmingham University.

Of the students who showed interest in the party, topics generally discussed were immigration, jobs, the Middle-East and nuclear weapons. Some students felt that the National Union of Students should take a lead in calling for an end to immigration, while many were worried that in spite of gaining qualifications at university there would be no jobs available in that field by the time they finish their education.

In summing up Dave Gardner was pleased with the student response.

"It was felt that it was important that NF ideas and policies became known among a student population who are being continually bombarded with all sorts of propaganda, especially from assorted Marxist groups. The student project will continue each term, making available to those at Birmingham University, National Front literature, and details of the policies of our party".

Not everyone, however, was happy with the spate of National Front literature on campus. The University's left-wing newspaper, Red Brick, was in fact very upset by the whole affair, whining about NF immigration policies and admitting "... the worrying aspect of this affair is the comprehensive and organised manner by which the Front has distributed the literature around the university's residences".

Stop This Barbaric 'Sport'

A DEER screamed in agony as ten crazed foxhounds ripped it to pieces.

— That was how hunt saboteur

How many more innocent animals must die before this barbaric 'sport' is banned?

Mark Brown recently described a helpless deer's long agony of death as the dogs bit chunks out of it.

The incident happened at Burley, in the heart of the New Forest. Mark continued: "The hounds chased the deer which became terrified and got tangled up in wire.

"The pack just fell on it and there was a terrible sound as they began ripping her to shreds.

"She took a long time to die and she kept trying to get up and stagger away with her flesh hanging in ribbons.

"Finally one of the hounds bit deeply into the deer's neck and I think she finally bled to death and was put out of her misery."

Tony Taylor, master of the New Forest hounds, confirmed that his hounds had killed the deer, but blamed the hunt saboteurs — and not the foxhounds — for the deer's death.

However, another member of the hunt was not so hypocritical: "Foxhounds are killers. It is not unusual for them to kill deer in the Forest. One is killed every season by the pack."

Thankfully, the incident in the New Forest has attracted the attention of the Forestry Commission — who licence the hunt and are responsible for the deer. An investigation into the hunt may recommend that the whole Burley pack of hounds be put down.

The National Front considers that this is too little, too late. We demand to know how many more innocent animals must die before this barbaric 'sport' is banned?

NATIONAL LEGAL SERVICE

PETER HAIN, no doubt still smarting from his derisory £5.00 libel 'award' received over an article published in the National Front's "Lifting the Lid off the Anti-Nazi League", has set himself up as the Labour Party's spokesman on law reform.

Amongst his proposals to be carried out by an incoming Labour Government:

- * Judges to be appointed only from amongst those holding left-wing sympathies.
- * Positive discrimination to appoint judges and magistrates from ethnic minorities

APPROVAL

This blatant political interference in our legal system would of course be totally unacceptable to the vast majority of British people. However his call for the establishment of a National Legal Service with lawyers employed by the state making their help available in the way doctors do within the NHS, would meet with the approval of anyone who has had the need to call upon the services of these expensive gentlemen.

It's such a good idea that it makes one wonder where a person like Hain would get it from... Page 21 of the 1983 National Front Election Manifesto maybe?

TWO NATIONAL Front candidates polled 3% in council elections in Bermondsey and Dulwich today.

The Conservatives held on to third place in Burgess Ward, Bermondsey, beating NF candidate Peter Core by a mere 34 votes, while in Ruskin Ward Dulwich, Raymond Barker polled a respectable 83 votes in virgin NF territory campaigning for more conservation, and against a local abortion clinic.

Both campaigns were self financing, with an election meeting raising in excess of £80.00 and an anonymous resident in Ruskin Ward sending the local NF branch a cheque for £30.00 with a note saying that Raymond Barker's election address "was the best thing I have read in years".

BRITAIN FOR THE BRITISH!

UNEMPLOYMENT:

Introduce import controls to keep out foreign manufactured goods we can make ourselves. Re-establish exchange controls to stop the flood of investment overseas — British money must be spent on industry here, not abroad! Start major public work schemes to rebuild Britain and slash unemployment. Get Britain out of the Common Market, which has destroyed more jobs than it has created.

LAW AND ORDER:

Crack down on crime. Make our streets safe again by bringing back capital punishment for murder and terrorism. Protect our Old Folk from muggers.

DEFENCE:

Stop the development of the American Cruise missiles and close down all 103 US military bases. Instead establish a British independent nuclear deterrent and adopt a position of armed neutrality — like France. We don't want to die for Reagan.

IMMIGRATION:

Britain for the British. Repatriate all coloured immigrants to their land of origin. Put Britons first in housing, jobs, education and welfare. No "Positive Discrimination" in favour of minorities. We didn't fight two World Wars to become second-class citizens in our own country.

INDUSTRIAL OWNERSHIP:

Stop the takeover of British industry by the multi-nationals and other large Capitalist combines. End the struggle between Management and Labour by introducing workers' co-operatives and co-ownership schemes, thus giving workers a stake in and control over their own livelihoods.

SOCIAL WELFARE:

We have a duty to care for the old, sick and young. Instead of wasting millions on Foreign Aid, let's look after our own people. Increase Family and Child allowances. Raise Old Age Pensions. Clamp down on rich tax fiddlers, who cost us £4 Billion per year — enough to build 250 new hospitals.

HOUSING:

Solve the housing crisis by a massive campaign of slum clearance and house building, utilizing the 350,000 unemployed construction workers, financed by interest-free loans from municipal banks.

FREEDOM AND JUSTICE:

End the Class and Social divisions in our country. People should be judged on merit — not by wealth and class. Introduce a Bill of Rights to protect everyone's democratic freedoms. Opportunity for all — privilege for none!
